Northeast Multistate Divison

Individual Activity Applicant

Activity Documentation Evaluation Form

Name of Organization: Connecticut Children's Medical Center
Title of Continuing Education Activity: Nursing Grand Rounds: "Oxytocin enhances developing relationships with skin-to-skin contact

Date Presented: 2/2/2017

Please rank the items/instructors using the numerical scale below.

5 4 3 2 1 0
High Agree Low Disagree Not Applicable

Name of Speaker	Knowledgeable of the subject	Organized in presenting	Effective in content delivery	Teaching methods / aids appropriate used effectively
Dorothy Vittner

To what extent were you able to achieve the following objectives: Use the scale above to respond.

Place a number in the box alongside the statement.

Define biological mechanism of salivary oxytocin and cortisol release
Describe 3 benefits of skin-to-skin contact
Identify the parent-infant experience of skin-to-skin contact
Did the objectives relate to the purpose/goal(s) of the education activity?	Yes/ No

The Purpose/Goal(s) of this activity were: to identify bio-behavioral mechanisms of skin-to-skin holding to decrease mother, father and infant stress in the NICU as well as support their developing relationship

This CNE program free of any bias? ☐ Yes ☐ No

*If NO Explain*_____